A 42-year-old female patient presents to the emergency department after a slip and fall in the bathroom. She is found to have an isolated right ankle injury and her radiographs are shown. Her distal neurovascular examination is intact and she has no open wounds. Which of the following is the best next step in management?

× Sorry, your answer is incorrect.

- ✓ Correct answer 1. Closed reduction, immobilization and post-reduction radiographs
Trimalleolar ankle fractures with displacement should be reduced immediately in place in an immobilization splint followed by post-reduction radiographs.
- × Incorrect answer 2. Closed reduction, immobilization and follow-up in 4 weeks
Trimalleolar ankle fractures with displacement generally require operative repair even if they have been anatomically closed reduced.
- Incorrect answer 3. Immobilization and follow-up in 2 weeks
Trimalleolar ankle fractures with displacement require immediate closed reduction to prevent stress on the skin, surrounding neurovascular structures and articular cartilage.
- Incorrect answer 4. Computed tomography scan
A computed tomography scan can be obtained once a successful closed reduction has been achieved.
